Tisk/Task and Everfan

Thank you Scott Chastain for an interesting presentation on extremely short notice! Scott is an entrepreneur and resident of Thomasville.

Everfan

In 2011, Scott had an idea. It was a somewhat unusual idea, that centered around fandom, superhero capes, and Auburn University. After 8 months of trial and error and mastering the labyrinth of collegiate licensing regulations, Everfan launched with a superhero kit that included a cape, eyemask, power bands, and shirt for 5 universities.

Fast forward a few years and Everfan started getting requests for custom designs and bulk orders. With new opportunities to work with large companies like MTV and Chick-fil-A, as well as build partnerships with nonprofits such as Heart Heroes, CASA, and Love Your Melon, Everfan began to evolve. Scott saw the power within his products and the demand from a different audience for customizable Everfan gear. Today, Everfan specializes in a host of playful and customizable products that engage people of all ages!

If you would like to nominate a Super Hero for recognition, please visit the Everfan site for details! https://everfan.com/

Tisk/Task

Scott has now begun to develop a platform for schools to provide real-life problem solving opportunities to students. Tisk/Task is helping to create experienced change makers and create excitement around our local community and helping it to grow. They are changing the world by equipping the next generation of problem solvers. They connect students with relevant real-world challenges. Students develop workforce skills by solving problems from real organizations. Trained moderators guide student through the process of implementing real-world problems solutions.
