Classification talks continue to be a useful tool that help members get to know each other. That was certainly the case last week with Dawna. Each talk gives members a peek into the life of the Rotarian. This helps us know the people we are working with. Thanks Dawna, for allowing us to know you better.

As was mentioned above, our program was Jack Martin and Chris Jones, owners of the Georgia Beer Company. Chris did a great job opening our eyes to one of the hidden gems of our South Georgia community. Hidden, because at the Georgia Beer Company, you can buy and drink your beer in the taproom. But there is more to this brewery. “Whether you are hosting a small business meeting, civic club luncheon, birthday party or Wedding Reception, we have a selection of private spaces. If the weather is nice, try our outdoor pump-house. Or if you want your guests to feel extra exclusive, host your event within the brewery itself in the brew house or
